

Thomas H. Hoivik, Captain USN (Ret)

Captain Thomas Hoivik, USN (Ret), is a Professor of Operations Research at the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Ca., specializing in high technology program management, systems engineering, and test and evaluation. He has over 30 years of Technical Program Management, Testing, and Systems Analysis experience. He has been Program Manager for a $1B aircraft acquisition program including Foreign Military Sales to three countries, Director, U.S. Naval Test Pilot School, and Commanded a major Naval Air Base and Squadron. As an Experimental Test Pilot, he has flown a total of 89 aircraft including evaluations of 18 international aircraft. He is qualified in jets, helicopters, single and multi-engine aircraft, and gliders, and was a Demonstration Pilot in the Paris Air Show. He has been the Director and principle developer for the U.S. Department of Defense Intermediate and Advanced/Executive Test and Evaluation Courses required to be taken by over 5,000 career government RDT&E personnel. He has received awards from several countries and was awarded the International Test and Evaluation Association's (ITEA) Cross Award for Test and Evaluation Education Excellence. He has also held the positions of Chair of Applied Systems Analysis and Chair of Tactical Analysis at the Naval Postgraduate School and is an international advisor in the areas of Test and Evaluation, Systems Engineering, and Systems Analysis.

Appointed a Federal Executive Fellow, at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS), a Washington D.C. based "think-tank", he was a member of two Congressional Study Groups and participated in International Defense research including exclusive fact-finding interviews with Prime Minister Thatcher, Chancellor Kohl, Premier Fanfani, Prime Minister Nakasone, Prime Minister Kim, and several other Heads of State and Defense Officials in Europe and Asia. He is a member of the Society of Experimental Test Pilots, International Test and Evaluation Association, Military Operations Research Society, INCOSE, and is listed in Who's Who in America.

Address:

Prof. Thomas H. Hoivik Code (OR/Ho)

Naval Postgraduate School

Monterey, Ca. 93940

Email: thhoivik@nps.edu